The State Administrative Court (PTUN) is a judicial institution that functions to examine, decide, and resolve disputes in the field of state administration. As a court of first instance, PTUN has the authority to hear cases involving decisions issued by state administrative bodies or officials, both at the central and regional levels.

The main duties of the PTUN include:

Receiving and examining state administrative disputes.

Issuing decisions on such disputes in accordance with applicable legal provisions, including Law No. 51/2009.

Carrying out administrative functions that support judicial activities, such as financial management and human resources.

In addition, the PTUN also plays a role in improving the quality and professionalism of judges as well as providing guidance to employees in technical judicial and administrative aspects. Thus, the PTUN serves as the last bastion of law and justice in Indonesia.
